What are Behavioral Health Rehabilitation Services?

Behavioral Health Rehabilitation Services (BHRS), more commonly known as Wrap Around Services, is a program that provides one-on-one therapeutic support to a child and family in their natural environment. Instead of having the child come into a clinic or community agency for treatment, BHRS takes the treatment to the client.

What does Behavioral Health Rehabilitation Services do?

BHRS staff members, Behavioral Specialist Consultants, Mobile Therapists, and Therapeutic Staff Supports collaborate with families, schools, and community agencies to write and implement behavioral treatment plans. A Therapeutic Staff Support works with the child for a specified number of hours each week in his/her home, school, and/or community. BHRS targets symptoms of various childhood mental health diagnoses such as Attention Deficit Hyper-Activity Disorder, Oppositional Defiant Disorder, and Anxiety Disorders. With the addition of several Certified Behavioral Analysts to PCS clinical teams, PCS has been able to offer a Specialized Autism Treatment Modality within the auspices of BHRS.

Who is Behavioral Health Rehabilitation Services for?

BHRS is geared toward children and adolescence who are in need of intense one-on-one therapeutic intervention to succeed in their natural environment. Clients must also be approved for Medical Assistance in order to qualify for services. Clients who qualify for BHRS will likely have tried outpatient services, only to find that a higher level of care is necessary. BHRS also serves as a step down service in that it provides additional, yet less intense, levels of support upon discharge from a more restrictive level of care like inpatient or Family Based Services.

How can I access PCS Behavioral Health Rehabilitation Services?

*Clients must be covered by Medical Assistance to be eligible for this service. To find out more about how to obtain Medical Assistance, contact your local Department of Public Welfare.

Clients who are covered by Medical Assistance can access BHRS in the following ways:

1. Self Initiation – A parent or legal guardian may contact a local PCS office (information on back) to initiate services.
2. Caregiver Initiation – If concerns arise regarding a particular child, such as decreased academic performance or other signs of difficulty with school and/or community activities, a caregiver may initiate the referral process by contacting the family and encouraging them to participate in the program.
